What would typically require days of preparation, various preparation products, a paint booth, years of experience, and other sophisticated equipment can now be achieved in a matter of minutes.

We may trade in our vehicles more often, but we still manage many miles of wear and tear, rock chips, scratches, and swirls. Unfortunately that lease with the compromised previously lustrous paint may cost you big. Paint accounts for 60% of higher grade values. But for many, repainting is just not an option. It's costly, time consuming, and should only be done when there is extreme damage. PSR is up to 90% less than body repaints.
